Student Term-Times

The Home Office requires that international students submit evidence of their term times alongside their RTW documentation when applying to work in the UK.

Evidence of term-times must be current, include the student's University name along with a break-down of their term and vacation dates for the relevant academic year(s) of their course.

- ✓ This may be a screen grab/print out of the University's academic calendar or a letter from the university containing this information.
- ✓ If a Masters/PHD postgraduate is on a full time one year course TrustID can accept the course start and end dates as evidence without term/vacation dates specified. TrustID require term and vacation dates if the course is over the 1-year time period.
- ✓ Please note that TrustID only require ONE document to feature the university name. For example, a university letter can be submitted alongside the term dates if they do not feature the university name.

Share Code (Most Common)

- This is a 9-character code made up of numbers and letters, beginning with W.
- This code can be entered on our system under 'Online RTW Check', or by candidates using a Guest Link.
- This is the most common form of RTW documentation for international students.
- Students will have an up to 6-month grace period from the date of their course completion until their share code expires.

Home Office

They can work in the UK until 30 January 2024.

Details

They can work:

- up to 20 hours a week during term time
- full-time during the holidays

They must share proof of their term dates with their employer.

They can also work on a placement which is part of the course their student visa is based on. The work placement must be:

- a compulsory part of their course
- assessed as part of their course

Read more about volunteering, working for a student union and other types of work.

Conditions

They cannot:

- work as an entertainer
- work as a professional sportsperson or coach
- run a business or be self-employed - unless they have applied for a start-up visa

If you employ this person

To avoid a penalty, you must:

- check this looks like the person you meet face to face or by video call
- keep a secure copy of this online check (either electronically or in hard copy), for the duration of the employment and for 2 years after
- get and keep details of their academic term and vacation times

You must do this check again when their permission to be in the UK expires on 30 January 2024.

Read the employers' code of practice to find out more about right to work checks.

You cannot accept a job applicant's biometric residence card, biometric residence permit, or Frontier Worker permit as proof of their right to work, even if it shows a later expiry date. Ask them for a share code instead.

Positive Verification Notice

- If a candidate cannot obtain a share code or if their share code has expired, you will need to use the Employer Checking Service, via the gov.uk website in order to obtain a PVN for the candidate. If granted, this will give them the Right to Work for 6 months whilst they obtain a share code or further documentation.
- The 6-month grace period rule does NOT apply to PVNs. Students will often obtain PVNs if they are applying for a graduate visa (they may have completed their course). This means that they could have completed their course more than 6 months before the PVN expiry date.

Typically the academic year starts in the September of a calendar year but it can also start at other times as well. Some courses follow different academic years e.g. NHS courses. Please check with your school.

Teaching blocks are composed of teaching, study break and assessment / examination weeks; dates of these may vary according to which programme you are enrolled on.

Student breaks follow the assessment weeks in each semester. In general, there will be no teaching or exams on English public and bank holidays.

TrustID Can Accept

- ✓ Evidence of term-times documents can be accepted if they clearly state the University name, are current and in-date, regardless of how far into the future they have evidenced. As long as the term-times dates evidence the current date when processing the RTW check, they can be accepted with a term-time follow up date.
- ✓ We now accept 'expected' and confirmed course completion dates providing this aligns with the candidate's grace period / leave to remain, and regardless of when the Term Time letter is dated.

TrustID Cannot Accept

- ✓ University letters only stating the start and end date of the course (if it is over a year)
- ✓ Documents where the website link is given instead of the term dates (please instead submit a screenshot of the dates)
- ✓ The course graduation date cannot be included as a term date
- ✓ University class timetables.

If the candidate has completed their course:

They can submit:

- ✓ Term dates which evidence up to the course completion date / end of their course.
- ✓ Their course completion/graduation certificate stating their name, university and completion/award date.
- ✓ A letter from the university stating their name and official course completion date.
- ✓ A letter evidencing an expected end date, which has passed.

If the candidate is on placement:

They can submit:

- ✓ A letter from the placement company stating the university name and start and end date of the placement.
- ✓ A letter from the university stating the placement company and start and end date of the placement

If the candidate has completed their course EARLY:

They will need to contact their university to request the Home Office updates their leave to remain. The Home Office will update their share code end date.
